1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to fishing lures such as spinners and spinnerbaits. More particularly, the invention relates to fishing lures which are capable of producing a deeper and more pronounced catch as compared with prior art spinners.

2. Description of the Prior Art In the past, a preferred method of catching fish with spinners was to set the hook, which first action disengaged the bait from the hook. The
