Introducing 'HyperMotion Technology' New 'Psychological Intelligence' system Optimised ball physics Improved player movement Touch Boost New Player Vision System Enhanced team-mates Improved player balance Improved visuals and animations The new FIFA 'HyperMotion' Technology will see player movement adjusted in real-time based on what they're doing at the moment, with the aim to increase realism. A new 'Psychological Intelligence' system now influences what happens during a player's lifeline — the free-kick, penalty shoot-out and corner kick — and also the final pass in a dead ball situation, allowing for more unpredictable and exciting outcomes. New in-game input options and 'Gamify' features have also been added to FIFA 'HyperMotion'. The game allows players to switch up their inputs with the touch of a button, from pressing the right stick to the press of a button. Meanwhile, customisable 'Gamify' features, including pressing the left stick to prompt the goalkeeper to make one of the 22 saves in '4 Save Game' mode, can now be fully customised. "We've created a brand new system for players to express themselves through the ball and the space they occupy in the game. The result is a rich and rewarding football experience. We're looking forward to seeing what you come up with." FIFA® 20 – Gareth Houghton, Executive Producer, EA SPORTS The optimisation of FIFA 'HyperMotion' technologies and updates to the in-game Physics and Vision Engine have been designed with the extra data collected from these player sessions to ensure the game remains realistic and authentic, regardless of the competition. New 'HyperMotion' features in FIFA 'HyperMotion' mode include: Touch Boost – gives a player a small boost towards the ball during the final seconds of a match to aid the final play, with the bigger boost being at the end of the match. Psychological Intelligence System – unique in-game system that affects the type of touch the player uses to receive a free-kick, penalty or corner kicks and can also have
